

AADE EDUCATION AND RESEARCH FOUNDATION

2007-08 Annual Report

*A Supplement to
The Diabetes Educator,
Volume 34, No. 5*

Supporting the practice and people of diabetes education.

“I was thrilled to receive one of the 2007 AADE Annual Meeting scholarships. As an independent contractor CDE working with a non-profit organization, all expenses for me to attend the meeting would have been out-of-pocket. I am grateful to AADE for supporting continuing education through the Scholarship Program, and for choosing me as a recipient. The numerous programs, workshops, vendor information and networking with fellow CDEs provided me with an invaluable experience.”

Building the evidence-base for diabetes education is critical to moving our profession forward. To this end, the AADE Education and Research Foundation works to secure funds to support the association's research agenda. The Foundation also offers scholarships for educational opportunities for AADE members. During the 2007–2008 year, the Foundation raised a total of $280,390 for these efforts.

RESEARCH GRANTS AWARDED

Two major research projects were funded this year due to the generous support of Eli Lilly and Company Foundation and Roche Diagnostics. They reflected the theme, Building the Evidence: The impact of diabetes educator interventions on self-care behaviors. Peggy Odegard, PharmD, of the University of Washington was awarded a grant of $140,000 to carry out a study entitled, “The Medication Adherence Program: Promoting Diabetes Self-Management through Community Pharmacies.” A grant in the amount of $160,500 was awarded to Russell Rothman, MD, of Vanderbilt University for his project, “Assessing the Role of Nutrition Education and Health Literacy in Diabetes Care.”

The Foundation also approved the funding of a $50,000 commissioned research project requested by the AADE Research Committee. This study is an analysis of data from primary care settings and health plans.

In collaboration with Sigma Theta Tau International, the Foundation awarded a $6,000 research grant for Case Western Reserve University's Carolyn Murrock, PhD, RN, to conduct her work: “Improving Diabetes Outcomes in African American Women Through Dance and Peer Group Support.”

EDUCATIONAL SCHOLARSHIPS

The Foundation supports the Association's goal of providing educational opportunities for members in order to advance their skills and career goals. We show this support by providing scholarships to cover the cost of registration to the AADE Annual Meeting and Exhibition or other educational offerings. This year saw double the number of applicants for scholarships, of which 50 were awarded by the Foundation.

A NEW FACE

Laura Roth Konopken joined us last year as Director of Development. This new addition to the AADE staff continues to strengthen the infrastructure of the Foundation. With attention to organizational excellence, she has worked to refine our operational processes, secure funding from donors and coordinate efforts between the Foundation and the Research Committee.

THANK YOU DONORS!

The following pages of this annual report recognize individuals, AADE members, Board of Directors, Trustees, industry allies and organizations for their generosity. Your gifts and donations will serve to secure the future of our profession by helping us build a much-needed evidence-base; additionally, your financial support will help to grow the ranks of qualified diabetes educators and ultimately lessen the burden of the diabetes epidemic.

Sincerely,

Virginia Zamudio Lange, RN, MSN, CDE
Chair

As we look toward the future, we remain committed to funding studies in diabetes education and fostering research among our members. We are hopeful that the future will bring additional support from our loyal donors and that our new initiatives will spark interest from a variety of contributors and partners.

The Foundation's growth and success will allow us to continue funding scholarships for the AADE Annual Meeting and offer new opportunities such as grants to cover travel to the Annual Meeting and research projects that develop the theme, Building the Evidence: The impact of diabetes educator interventions on self-care behaviors, with a focus on problem solving and healthy coping.

Additionally, the Foundation plans to encourage further research in diabetes education by recruiting new investigators from the ranks of the association's membership. This will allow us to expand the amount of research in the field, and consequently, solidify our evidence-base.

assistance to members pursuing graduate-level degrees.

Foundation priorities for the upcoming year include supporting projects that cultivate continuous quality improvement initiatives and translate research into practice. We will also continue to support

We hope that you will join us in supporting these initiatives by contributing to the AADE Education and Research Foundation. Your generosity will ensure that more diabetes educators will gain access to key continuing education opportunities and that the profession as a whole will thrive on a solid foundation of research and evidence.

“I was extremely pleased to be awarded a scholarship to the St. Louis meeting. Without the scholarship, I would not have been able to attend. I am the sole diabetes educator at our 23 bed rural hospital. There is no budget allowance for attending educational events outside of the hospital system. I found the 2007 AADE meeting to be very encouraging and supportive, and I enjoyed every minute. Thanks so very much.”

Christie Morehouse, RN, CDE, 2007 Foundation Scholarship Awardee

The AADE Education and Research Foundation secures financial resources to fund grants and scholarships that support a variety of research and educational opportunities for AADE members, thereby translating positive findings into evidence-based tools; advancing the practice of diabetes education; and enabling members to help people with diabetes successfully self-manage their conditions.
